When you fill in the contact form that we ask for some personal details from you which enables us to provide you with information on products, events, artists and other information you request. Please make sure your details are correct and up to date so that we can provide you with this information efficiently. No personal information will be visible to other ParliamentSpeakers.com users.

We make sure that all the information we hold on you is as safe as possible.

We never give your information to any individual or organisation outside Parliament Communications Ltd. Where we use other companies to look after your information we ask them to make sure they keep your information safe and secret. There will be some circumstances where we will have to give people information on you because it is the law.

A cookie is a small text file that a Web server stores on your computer. Web sites often store cookies on your computer so that their Web server can recognize you and return information to you that you have previously customized, like your 'My Shortlist' Page. Any personal information you provide to us will be held securely in our database and will NOT be stored in any cookies that are held on your machine. Only ParliamentSpeakers.com will be able to access the cookie.

To provide a better service to you, the user. Only the 'My Shortlist' pages use cookies, so as to remember the speaker you may have added. As this information is held in a cookie you will only be able to view your shortlist from the computer you used to set it up.

The 'My Shortlist' services will not be able to operate if you disable cookies.
